FACTORY NEW

SchureMed Radiation Protection Breast Shield: 807-0039. Designed for use during spinal radiographic procedures in both upright and recumbent positions, this shield drapes over the shoulders like a scarf to effectively protect the chest and lungs while imaging.

Its lightweight and comfortable design ensures ease of use during extended procedures. Typical usage includes spinal imaging, but it can also provide valuable protection during other radiographic procedures involving the chest area.

The shield offers essential radiation protection without compromising patient comfort or mobility. See Tab for more information.
