

SchureMed Steris-C-Max Surgical Table Pads

FACTORY NEW

SchureMed Steris-C-Max Surgical Table Pads are designed to meet pressure management objectives for operating room tables, stretchers, armboards, and other surgical padding applications. The pads feature multiple layers of engineered foam that work together to maximize pressure-reducing properties and conform to the patient's body while providing essential support.

SchureMed brings over 20 years of specialized experience in pressure management for surgical environments. The multi-layer foam construction addresses the limitations of single-foam designs by simultaneously conforming to patient anatomy, supporting body weight, and preventing bony prominences from bottoming out during extended procedures.
